

3 REASONS to Consider Outsource Accounting for Nonprofits

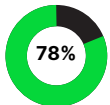

For nonprofits, staying ahead requires strategic thinking, data-driven decisions, and financial expertise. Yet, many nonprofit leaders find themselves buried in day-to-day tasks, leaving little time for strategic planning. This infographic explores the three compelling reasons why outsourcing accounting services for nonprofits is the key to unlocking growth, efficiency, and mission success. Discover how outsourcing can provide real-time insights, advanced financial expertise, and the freedom to focus on what truly matters—driving your organization's mission forward.

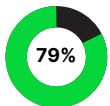

1. Nonprofits Need Strategic Leadership Now More Than Ever

73% of nonprofit leaders believe that, if their organization fails to transform, it would go out of business.

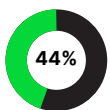

78% say the competitive landscape is becoming more aggressive.

79% believe the pace at which their organization needs to change is accelerating.

2. Nonprofits Need Real-Time Insights for Smart Decision-Making

44% of executives make big, strategic decisions at least once a month.

1/3 of respondents make decisions based on gut feeling due to a lack of timely data access.

Manual processes and disconnected spreadsheets hinder quick decision making.

3. Nonprofits Need Advanced Financial Expertise Without Adding Headcount

Errors or omissions can jeopardize a nonprofit's tax-exempt status and grant eligibility.

Limited budgets often prevent nonprofits from hiring in-house CFOs.

Staff turnover can lead to expertise loss and hiring challenges.
