

Explore a new approach to your 150 credit hours for CPA licensure.

We are participating in the American Institute of CPAs® (AICPA®) and the National Association of State Boards of Accountancy (NASBA) integrated experience, learn and earn program to support students and new hire employees like you in your journey to CPA.

Experience, Learn and Earn (ELE)

The ELE route enables you to earn up to 30 of your 150 credit hours of education for a CPA licensure.

You will:

- Start the ELE program by attending online and asynchronous courses with Tulane University's School of Professional Advancement.
- Have the opportunity to earn credit hours in the areas relevant to your career while being employed in an accounting position with us.
- Receive regular mentoring, time to study and be able to learn and apply the knowledge to your career.

How it works

After completing your bachelor's degree and core accounting courses, you can enroll in the program. This program is flexible to the number of credit hours you need, and is offered at an affordable rate.
